For the Children.

Right and True.

Children, who read my lay,
This much I have to say,
Each day and every day,
Do what is right—
Right things in great and small;
Then, though the sky should fall,
Sun, moon, and stars and all,
You shall have light.

This further would I say:
Be you tempted as you may,
Each and every day,
Speak what is true—
True things in great and small:
Then, though the sky should fall
Sun, moon and stars and all,
Heaven would show through.

—ALICE CARY.

A Wise Dog.

A small terrier fell from the stringer of the wharf into the bay. He swam around for some time in a circle and many plans were suggested for his rescue, but none of them proved practical. The little creature seemed doomed to a watery grave, for he was fast becoming exhausted. The female portion of the audience was much exercised, and gave many expressions of pity.

Just at the moment that all hopes of saving the terrier were given up, the bark of a dog in the crowd attracted attention, and there appeared upon the stringer in front of the wharf a large New Foundland.

He saw the little fellow in the water, and with a low wail he ran to and fro along the wharf for a moment or two, and then, to the surprise of every one present, he sprang into the water and at once swam to the terrier.

Seizing him by the neck with his teeth, and after swimming about for some time, he sighted the new seawall extention, about a hundred yards distant, for which he headed.

Upon landing his burden on terra firma, the Newfoundland gave two or three sharp barks, and seemed to be proud of what he had done. It was sometime before the terrier was able to gain strength to walk away.

One of the witnesses of the strange sight, patting the Newfoundland, said, "This dog is mine, and I would not take one thousand dollars for him at this moment."—THE ALTA.

Couldn't be Bought.

John Baily was hurrying home from school when Mr. Giles hailed him. Mr. Giles was the proprietor of a sort of a store and saloon combined. He kept a stock of groceries and a few other articles, and besides, he kept beer on draught; and this last was, of course, the most profitable part of his business.

John stopped and turned back at Mr. Giles' call, and stood waiting.

"How would you like a chance to earn some money nights and mornings?"

"I thought so. Well I need a boy to help me in the store, especially evenings, and I thought I would give you a chance. You see there are a good many coming in after working-hours for their beer, and serving them and weighing out groceries is most too much for one to do, and I thought if we could agree on a price, I'd like you to come in and help. You are a likely sort of a boy, I guess."

John's thoughts had gone speedily forward, and taken in a new coat for himself, a dress for his mother, and no end of books and papers to be bought with money he should earn; but his hopes sank as rapidly as they had risen. He had not thought of the beer.

"I don't think that I could come," he said.

"Why not? asked Mr. Giles, in surprise. "I thought you would jump at the chance."

"So I did, at first; but come to think of it, I couldn't."

"But why?" And as Mr. Giles insisted upon an answer, John said, "I can't help you because I don't want to betray the cause which I am pledged to fight for."

"Cause? Pledged to fight for? What do you mean?"

"I mean the temperance cause. I can't sell beer, Mr. Giles."

"O that is it. Well, John, I won't ask you to sell beer; you may confine yourself to the grocery department.

"I don't think that would do, either," replied John. "It would look bad, anyway, and hurt the cause. I guess I can't come at all."

But Mr. Giles persisted. "I will pay you well," he said; and finally, as John became more decided in his refusal to entertain his proposal, he offered him large wages, and John, growing desperate, said, "Mr Giles I am not worth much, but I am not for sale, what is of me." With that he said good afternoon and hurried home to tell his mother the story for her approval; for he was sure she would approve.—ORPHAN'S FRIEND

DEAR EDITOR: I have seen the names of little girls in your paper, so I thought I would write you a few lines. I am twelve years old. I go to Sunday-school. Mrs. Gurney is my teacher. We like her very much. We have preaching at the Universalist church once a month. Mr. Creary is our preacher. I go to to school every day. Mrs. Little is our teacher. I read in the fifth reader.

DEAR EDITOR: I have seen the names of little girls in your paper, so I thought I would write you a few lines. I was 12 years old the 14th of January. I go to school every day and study reading, grammar, arithmetic, geography and spelling. Our teacher's name is Mrs. Little, and we like her very much. I go to Sunday-school every Sunday. BELLE DYER.

Bellville, O., March 23, 1885.

DEAR EDITOR: I will try and write you a few lines for the EVANGELIST. I am ten years old. The summer is going to be warm and nice. We are having nice weather now. I like to go to school. I study reading, writing, arithmetic, geography and spelling. I like my teacher. Her name is Lizzie Gochenour. This is my first attempt to write, and the next time I will try to do better. I have two brothers and two sisters, and they all go to school but one of my brothers. Now I must close. GRACY V. SAYLOR.

BRENTWOOD CAL., MAR. 11, 1885.

DEAR EDITOR: I have a little black pigeon and his name is Blickie. Papa is making a fence to keep the chickens and turkeys out of the front yard. I would like to join the Dew Drop. My sister wrote for the EVANGELIST, so, I thought I would write. I think Papa will take the EVANGELIST all his life. I am going to take it when I get big. I will be ten years old the 12th of March. Our school will commence next Monday, and Miss Shaw is going to teach. We do not have any school in the winter here. We have Sunday school on Sunday. I go to church when J. W. Beer preaches, and I love to go. Good-by.

LEE S. PRESTON.

DEAR EDITOR: I thought I would write you a letter. I am eleven years old to-day. Our school is out. I love to read the young folks pieces, I see they are getting few, so I thought I would write and help fill it up. I wish it would get warm. We have had a long and cold winter. I will write soon again. Good-by.

He that swells in prosperity is sure to shrink in adversity.

The every-day cares and duties, which men call drudgery, are the weights and counterpoises of the clock of time, giving its pendulum a true vibration and its hands a regular motion.

"It is a trifle," you say "it is nothing," True; but it is a nothing that will be every thing to you; for a trifle that you prefer to the will of God is a trifle that will be your ruin.

Wonderful.

From the Pittsburgh Dispatch, Sept. 25th, 1880.

"Very seldom do we read of an actual case of recovery, where hope had altogether been lost, to parallel that which was Monday investigated by a Dispatch reporter, who had heard in various quarters persons talking to their friends of a cure, seemingly little short of marvelous, that had been performed. The plain facts in the case referred to, without exaggeration, are these, as they were learned from the mother of the young man, his pastor and other persons well known in the community:

"William Lincoln Curtis is the name of the young man in question. He is now employed at H. K. Porter & Co.'s locomotive works in Pittsburgh, Pa. A year ago he resided with his mother on Grant street. About that time he went to bed one evening with a violent pain in his shoulder, the result, he thought, of a cold. The next morning the shoulder was greatly swollen, the pain was intense, and aches were felt all through his system. His case was speedily developed into a violent form of chronic rheumatism, among the first notable features of which was the paralysis of his left arm.

"He gradually grew worse, and in a few months the elbow and knee joints and both ankles became enormously enlarged. In March last the cheek bones began to enlarge, and upon his left side particularly, spreading his face out of all resemblance to his former self. The pain in all his joints became intense; fever, with its deteriorating effects, was now added, and he became rapidly reduced to the semblance of a skeleton, while vitality reached its lowest possible condition, and his sufferings were of such an indiscribable character that those who most loved him sometimes thought it would be better if he was called away. At this time physicians well known in Pittsburgh informed his parents that they could give no hopes of recovery.

"The young man finally commenced taking that wonderful medicine, PERUNA. In two weeks quite a change for the better, was perceptible. In six weeks all the enlargement had been reduced completely, while in spirits and strength the patient was quite as well as he had ever been in his life. Nearly three weeks ago he resumed work as a machinist at his old place, able to perform as much labor as ever in his life.

"The mother of Willie Curtis, in stating all these facts, said: 'Indeed, I can not look upon the cure much less than as a miracle. I do not hesitate in sounding the praise of PERUNA, and in recommending it to all my friends.'"

The pastor of the church where the young man attended Sabbath school was visited, and he readily confirmed the facts of the deformed bones, the emaciated condition from disease, and of the doctors having given him up. He was greatly surprised at his improved condition. Said he, "If he had not spoken, I would not have known him."
